FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Sophia Sirius Publishing Announces Release of Groundbreaking Book to Empower Women

New York, NY – November 22, 2024 – Sophia Sirius Publishing is proud to announce the release of "Women of America, Incorporate!: How to Protect Your Personal Assets from Domestic Abuse," a groundbreaking book by Barbara Leuin, Ph.D. This timely and provocative work offers a radical solution for women seeking economic empowerment and equality in their relationships.

In a world where traditional gender roles and expectations often leave women financially vulnerable, "Women of America, Incorporate!" challenges the status quo and provides a practical roadmap for women to take control of their economic futures.

Key Themes Explored in the Book:

- The undervaluation of women's domestic labor
- The economic inequalities faced by women in heterosexual relationships
- The legal and social barriers to women's economic empowerment
- The practical steps involved in incorporating a "Domestic Corporation"

A Call to Action for Women's Equality

"Women of America, Incorporate!" is a must-read for any woman who has ever felt undervalued or unappreciated in her relationship. It is a powerful call to action for women to assert their economic independence and demand the respect they deserve.

Proceeds to Benefit UN Women

Sophia Sirius Publishing is committed to supporting organizations that empower women and girls around the world. A portion of the proceeds from the sale of "Women of America, Incorporate!" will be donated to UN Women, a United Nations entity dedicated to gender equality and the empowerment of women.

About the Author

Barbara Leuin, Ph.D., is an accomplished economist, author, and entrepreneur with over five decades of experience. She is a passionate advocate for women's rights and economic empowerment.

The text presents a compelling argument for the incorporation of women's domestic labor. It highlights the economic and social inequalities faced by women in heterosexual relationships and proposes a novel solution for achieving greater equality.

The author's suggestion of forming a "Domestic Corporation" is a thought-provoking approach to addressing the undervaluation of women's work in the home. By treating household and childcare tasks as services with market rates, the text challenges traditional gender roles and expectations.

The analysis of the "4B movement" and the "Trad Wife movement" provides a nuanced perspective on the different paths women might choose in their pursuit of empowerment. While the 4B movement represents a more radical rejection of traditional relationships, the Trad Wife movement embraces traditional gender roles as a form of self-determination.

The concluding chapter offers practical guidance on the steps involved in setting up a business entity, empowering women to take control of their economic and personal lives.

Overall, the text is a well-argued and insightful examination of the challenges faced by women in contemporary society. It offers a bold vision for achieving greater equality and empowerment, encouraging women to challenge the status quo and create their own opportunities for success.
